Section 1 General Instructions

What is this form?

To help the government fight financial crime, federal regulation requires financial institutions to obtain, verify, and record information about the beneficial owners of legal entity customers at each new account opening and update the collected information when a possible change in beneficial ownership is identified. This certification is based on the form located in Appendix A of the Customer Due Diligence Requirements for Financial Institutions.

This verification is required at the time of account opening or maintenance. Failure to return this completed and signed Certification of Beneficial Owner(s) form will result in restrictions to your ability to transact on the account. For brokerage accounts: newly-opened accounts will remain restricted until the completed and signed form is on file, and existing accounts will be subject to a trading restriction if the completed and signed Certification of Beneficial Owner(s) is not on file within 30 days of the account modification date.

Who must complete this form?

This form must be completed by the individual opening a new account or maintaining an existing account on behalf of a legal entity with any of the following U.S. financial institutions: a bank or credit union; a broker or dealer in securities; a mutual fund; a futures commission merchant; or an introducing broker in commodities.

For the purposes of this form, a legal entity includes a corporation, limited liability company, or other entity that is created by a filing of a public document with a Secretary of State or similar office, a general partnership, and any similar business entity formed in the United States or a foreign country.

A legal entity that falls under a full exclusion from beneficial ownership requirement or the customer does not meet the definition of a legal entity (e.g., unincorporated organization, sole proprietorship) is not required to complete this form. However, we may ask for information to support why this form is not required.

Who must be identified on this form?

When you open an account or maintain an existing account on behalf of a legal entity, we will ask for information about the legal entity's beneficial owner(s). Beneficial ownership consists of two categories defined below.

Beneficial Ownership Prongs

Control Prong	One individual with significant responsibility for managing the legal entity customer (for example, a chief executive officer, chief financial officer, chief operating officer, managing member, general partner, president, vice president, or treasurer).
Ownership Prong	Each individual, if any, who owns, directly or indirectly, 10% or more of the equity interests of the legal entity customer (for example, each natural person who owns 10% or more of the shares of a corporation). If a trust owns, directly or indirectly, 10% or more of the equity interests of the legal entity customer, one trustee (individual or non-individual) for each trust with ownership must be identified.

At a minimum, a completed form contains the identifying information of one individual (under the control prong). The identifying information of up to ten owners (under the ownership prong) may also be identified on a completed form depending on the ownership structure of the legal entity. The same individual might be identified under both prongs (for example, the president of ABC, Inc. who holds a 50% equity interest).
